

John Lewis Youth Leadership Award

Description:

The John Lewis Youth Leadership Award was created in February 2021, as a way for National Association of Secretaries of State (NASS) members to recognize a gifted, civic-minded young person in their state each year. The recipient should demonstrate leadership abilities, have a passion for social justice, and be motivated to improve the quality of life in their community.

Eligibility:

- The recipient must be 25 years old or younger at the time of the award presentation.
- The recipient is recognized in their community for being civic-minded and improving the quality of life in their community. The community must be in the awarding NASS Member's state/territory (i.e., South Dakota).
- The recipient has shown a meaningful commitment to address civil rights issues, including but not limited to voting rights, and to authentically bring about positive change in his or her community.
- Examples could include youth leadership in a specific project or program, advocacy, or even literature as the Congressman also won a National Book Award for young people's literature.

Submission Deadline:

Submissions must be emailed to elections@state.sd.us by 5:00 p.m. Central Time (CT) on Wednesday, October 8, 2025 in order to be considered.

Supporting Materials:

Please send a picture of the recipient with this nomination form. Up to ten pages of supporting materials, including news releases, news articles, or social media posts may also be included as part of your submission, as long as they are digitized (no hard copies, please).
